15 HEROINES FIGHT PLACUE.

The Brave Nurses Have Saved Many Small-Pox Victims.

ONLY TWO DEATHS SO FAR

Women Defy the Pest and Daily Risk Their Lives.

you should fall a victim to smallpox do you know what would happen to

The first thing that would interest vowould be the arrival of the Board Health small-pox expert, who would tlash up to your residence in an ambu You would be placed in the ambulance and hurried to the Reception Hos pital at the foot of East Sixteenth street, while doctors and disinfectants would be at work in the place you left. devoted to you.

But what would most impress you—if you were really not too ill to observe your surroundings—would be the little corps of fifteen female nurses, who, with the three physicians and the five male nurses, constitute the present staff caring for the fifty-odd cases on the island. Pifteen Heroines.

These fifteen female nurses on North Brother Island wear a uniform—white cap, white apron and time and white skirt. They move about from pest-house to pest-house and handle the cases assigned to them with absolute indifference to danger.

Of course you figure that they are immune from the dread disease, and that they run no risk in thus caring for the afflicted.

That is a mistake.

the afflicted.
That is a mistake.
These fifteen beroic women, in daily contact with the scourge in its most violent form, are not immunes. They have not had the small-pox. They have merely been vaccinated as a precaution.
This little band of brave women is in such danger that the Board of Health guards carefully their names, so that relatives or friends may be spared grief or worty over them as they go about their self-sacrificing duty. From ward to ward these unnamed heroless go, oursing back to health the victims of the disease.

Treatment for Pest.

Treatment of the small-pox patients on the island differs according to the condition of the patient. Since the headming of the present epidemic there have been only three deaths.

Thus for no cases have been reported among the members of the attendant staff. The visiting physician in making his rounds of hospital and pest-house wards wears a great robe with a cap, which exposes only a part of the face. The nurses, both male and female, do not exercise this precaution. They dejend upon vaccination and the excellence of their physical concition, Physicians of the Board of Health are confident to-day that they have the small-pox situation go well in hand that no epidemic need be feared. Additional cases of the disease are expected, but in every instance such precautions will be exercised that there will be no chance for it to spread.

"Get vaccinated," said Dr. Blauvelt, of the Board of Health, to-day, "Everybody should be vaccinated. That is our greatest aid in preventing a spread.

"Last week we vaccinated. That is our greatest aid in preventing a spread.

"Last week we vaccinated. That is our greatest and in preventing a spread.

"Last week we vaccinated. That is our greatest and in preventing a spread.

"Last week we vaccinated as a pread and the week before 1,063. We must expect, of course, that there will be more cases. But we are confident that there need be no fear of an epidemic."

The serried row of figures in these ists of securities yield a fascinating nalysia. First of all there is the in-ome. Cornelius Vanderbilt's $52,990,867 n personalty yielded him annually the num of $1,739,290. Translated into lesser livisions of time, this represents $144,940 month, $33,447.88 a week or $5,177 a day. Every minute of this man's existence made him $3.30 richer.
